Appreciably This Year—
Balance $35,204.56.

SHERIFF: $16,138

Sheriff's Bills Levied on County;
Other Reports—Dr. Taylor
Explains Request.

The daily cost per capita for maintenance of the inmates at the Ulster County Home at New Paltz for the fiscal year was 34 cents per day according to the report of Commissioner of Public Welfare Robert H. Park, who submitted his annual report to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors Friday evening.

This was the average cost for the 203 inmates at the home who were given a total of 37,104 days' care during the year. This item included the cost of groceries, clothing, medical supplies, beds, bedding and household supplies, but does not include the use of produce which was produced on the farm or the light and heat charges. The cost of maintaining inmates last year was 31 cents, indicating that there has been an increase in the cost of living even at the County Home during the past year.

Financial Statement.
County Commissioner Park's report included the financial statement for the past fiscal year from November 1, 1936, to October 31, 1937. The total receipts were $109,438.84 and the total disbursements through his office was $74,235.28. Leaving a balance on hand as of October 31, 1937, of $35,204.56, from which will be deducted the cost of operations until the new tax levy is made.

In his report, Mr. Park expressed his thanks to all who have provided entertainment or other donations during the year and he especially mentioned Mr. Wulfschlegel and Father McCann who have given monthly religious services at the home during the year.

The report of the County Commissioners received and filed. Expenditures for inmates of the County Home during the year were $32,515.21. For children in Industrial Home and boarding home, $24,943.22 and for Emergency Relief bills $15,776.85, a total expenditure of $74,235.28, leaving the balance in the hands of the commissioner of $35,204.56 as stated.

In the Industrial Home and Boarding Home account was an appropriation of $30,000 made last year from which was deducted an overdraft of $1,374.21. There were received from the County Agent for board of children the sum of $2,996.06 for a total of $31,621.85 for use of this department. The total disbursements for this department was $24,943.22, leaving a balance as of October 31, 1937, of $6,678.63 in the Industrial Home and Boarding Home account.

For Emergency Relief Mr. Park received a total of $24,551.76 and expended $16,776.85 to leave a balance of $8,074.90 in that fund. In his report for the County Home he reported on November 1, 1937, there had been in the Home 85 inmates. Re-admitted during the year 56 and received during the year 52, a total of 203. Discharged during the year 80, absconded 1, died 25, and in the Home on October 31, 1937 were 97 inmates.

37,104 Days' Care.
Chargeable to the various towns during the year was 34,855 days' care and chargeable to the county at large were 2,249 days, a total of 37,104 days care.

An inventory of live stock now on the farm shows 16 cows, 27 pigs from 250 to 300 pounds and 24 three weeks old pigs, one bull, four horses and 550 hens. Produced on the farm during the past year was 80 tons hay, 60 tons ensilage, 1,300 bushels of potatoes, 474 bushels oats, 175 bushels wheat, 300 bushels corn, 6,000 heads of cabbage, 70 bushels of beans, 20 bushels peas, 75 bushels carrots, 50 bushels beets, 200 bushels apples, 200 bushels egg plant, 80 bushels tomatoes, 10 bushels peppers, 50 bushels sweet corn, 51,100 eggs and 87,200 pounds of milk, all of which was used toward the maintenance and care of inmates.

Sums to be Raised.
Mr. Park reported that there was to be raised on the various towns of the county and the county at large the following sums to care for the individual towns' share of the operating costs of the Home:

Town	Days	Amount
Esopus	1,653	$662.19

Injunction Halts Bond Issue for New Hall at Woodstock

Contending that the taxpayers of Woodstock never had the proposition of a bond issue submitted and that the sale of $32,000 in bonds for the construction of a town hall in the village of Woodstock is illegal, two taxpayers of the village asked Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick to stay the sale pending the determination of an action for a permanent injunction. Justice Schirick granted the temporary injunction and a bond of $500 was posted by the petitioners which will guarantee payment of costs in the event they are defeated in their action against the town.

The matter will be argued before Justice Bergan at Albany on December 10, this being the first regular special term in this district. Thomas J. Plunkett appeared for the petitioners and there was no appearance on the part of the town when the injunction order was secured. Martin F. Comeau of Woodstock, attorney for the town board, will appear in opposition to the application for the permanent injunction.

Restraints All Plans.
The restraining order prevents any further action in the town hall proposition until the matter has been argued before Justice Bergan and the legality of the proceeding has been determined. The injunction stays not only the sale of the $32,000 bond issue which was to have been sold Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock but also all payments, the raising of funds on the town or any other financing plan.

When the order of the court was served on the members of the town board and Supervisor Casdollar just prior to the opening of the bids for the bonds Friday, there were 12 bids ready for examination, two of the bidders were at the sale in person. Among the bidders were banking houses from Buffalo, New York and Newburgh. None of the local banks entered a bid. When the sale was declared off one of the banking representatives informed Supervisor Casdollar that his frequenting happened at sales when dissatisfied persons secured restraining orders.

With a copy of the restraining order was also filed a copy of the summons and complaint in the matter. Both papers were filed late Friday afternoon with the county clerk. The summons and complaint commences an action, Louise Hasbrouck Zimm and Bruno Zimm, plaintiffs, against The Town of Woodstock, Supervisor Albert Casdollar, John Sickler, Wallace Shultis, Daniel Lynch, and Roland Shultis as justice of the peace and Leslie A. Elwyn the town clerk, all of the town of Woodstock.

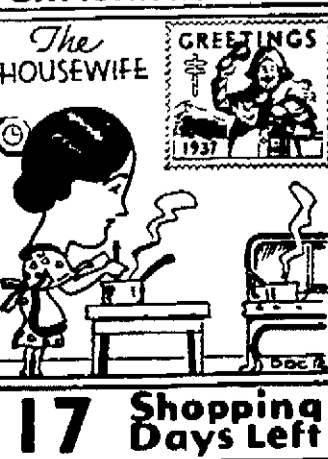

Was Candidate.
Mr. Zimm, one of the complainants in the action, was the Democratic candidate for Supervisor of the town at the last election and was defeated by Supervisor Casdollar who was re-elected by a large majority. Signing the bond for $500 is Mr. and Mrs. Zimm, William S. and Bertha Elwyn and Anita Phillips, all of the town of Woodstock. Mr. Elwyn is a former postmaster of the village.

The bond states that since the plaintiffs are about to start an action to enjoin the town board from issuing bonds for the purpose of erecting a town hall, that the sum of $500 is pledged for payment of costs of the action should the plaintiffs fail in their action and for damages which may arise out of postponement of the sale.

With the undertaking filed is also a summons and complaint which recited in part that on April 7, 1937, the Town Board of Woodstock voted to accept a petition for a special election and that on May 11, 1937, such election was held at which time it

Mrs. Marian Gustin Allgeyer (above) of New Orleans sued Howard E. Spaulding of Greenwich, Conn., in New York Supreme Court for $900,000, alleged unpaid balance of the $1,000,000 she said he promised for keeping quiet about their bigamous marriage at Milwaukee in 1925.

Schirick Holds Busy Term Friday In Supreme Court

Justice Schirick held a busy special term of Supreme Court Friday when a varied business came before him. However, predominating were matrimonial difficulties which were aired in open court and also at chambers to which the special term was adjourned in the early afternoon.

Esther B. L. Pratt, by LeRoy Lounberry, her attorney, sought to have the court direct alimony and counsel fees from her husband, Elmer H. Pratt, who was represented by Benjamin Roosa. Mr. Lounberry told the court that the plaintiff had been locked out of her own home by her husband and he said that on one date she had been threatened with a shot gun when he said the husband said "get the — out of here or I'll blow your head off."

The defendant it was claimed, had an income of $2,400 a year from his usual work and as a transient officer of the town of Marlborough. This was denied by the defendant who claimed that it was far from that sum.

Says Plaintiff Cruel.
Presenting the other side of the picture the defendant claimed that the plaintiff had treated him in a cruel manner and has abandoned him. He also alleges that the plaintiff has committed acts which are sufficient grounds for divorce.

Countering her allegations of cruel and inhuman treatment the defendant through his attorney told the court that on one occasion he had returned from the store with his arms full of groceries when his wife met him and while he had his hands full she had struck him and forced him into a closet and that he was forced to fight his way out. He charged that one time she threw a lunch bucket at him.

Denies $2,400 Yearly.
Defendant denied he earned $2,400 a year and said his pay was 60 cents an hour when he worked. His pay as transient officer he said was nominal.

The defendant's attorney told the court that not only did the plaintiff treat her husband in a cruel manner but that she would come home late at night and on one occasion he told the court that her husband had refused to let his wife in the house until she promised not to go out again in company with a Mr. Trowbridge, with whom the defendant charges his wife has been too friendly.

Once Mr. Roosa said the plaintiff had thrown oil over her husband's car and threw dirt in the motor so he could not start the car.

Cites System of Signals.
Mr. Roosa said there had been a system of signals between Mrs. Pratt and Mr. Trowbridge, whereby she signaled by means of her bedroom curtain and lights when it was possible for them to be together. He told the court that while the defendant was out working Trowbridge would come up to the house and remain for long periods with Mrs. Pratt.

The defendant had ordered the gentleman from the house and as a result of an argument over Trowbridge staying away, a slander suit had been commenced. This suit had been settled Mr. Roosa said partly on his advice. One of the difficulties in the case Mr. Roosa said was a question of property. Mrs. Pratt had put money in the property and this was one of the difficulties now.

Court Allows Week.
The court finally gave a week for filing of affidavits. Mr. Lounberry said that he would produce to the court an affidavit of Trowbridge to the effect that he had not been at the Pratt home in the absence of Mr. Pratt as charged. Mr. Lounberry asked for time to make reply to the affidavits of

British Mercy Errand Fails; Japs Ask Rights In French Concession

Steamer Fails to Evacuate Nuns on Island Because of Machine Gun Attack, Chief Officer Killed.

UNCOMMITTED

International Settlement Head Accepts Japanese Request but Is Silent on Plan.

Shanghai, Dec. 4 (AP)—The British steamer Shushan was reported today riddled with bullets from an undetermined source while on a mission of mercy to Japanese-occupied Tsungming Island, near Shanghai.

The chief Chinese officer was killed. A sailor and several passengers were wounded. After more than 200 machine-gun shots had been fired, the little steamer's master, Captain N. McMillan, crept on his hands and knees under the spray of bullets to the wheelhouse. He reached the wheel safely and steered his vessel out of range.

British authorities have been striving to rescue nine French Canadian nuns who have been marooned on the island for about three months.

Among those aboard the 296-ton Shushan were the Rev. Father Adrian Sansucy, a French Canadian missionary, and E. B. Boothby, a British consular official. Boothby sought to rescue the nuns but his efforts were frustrated by the machine-gunning.

British authorities said the Japanese, who have an air base on Tsungming Island, were informed of the voyage in advance. (Tsungming is in the mouth of the Yangtze Estuary, between Shanghai and the China Sea.)

Demand Entry.
Japanese today demanded freedom to enter Shanghai's international settlement at will after armed forces twice encountered foreign resistance.

At the same time a representative of Gen. Iwane Matsui, the Japanese commander, demanded that settlement police prevent any repetition of the "victory march" attack on Japanese soldiers.

After a grenade thrower had scattered a column of 6,000 Japanese soldiers on parade yesterday, a United States marine officer's protest forced a Japanese cordon out of the area guarded by American troops.

Earlier today French authorities blocked five Japanese army trucks from the French concession but finally permitted them to move supplies into the French area.

General Matsui's representative reserved the right to take all necessary steps to avoid any recurrence of violence unless precautions by settlement authorities were taken.

Declaring the Japanese army regards settlement police as incapable of effective suppressing anti-Japanism, he also reserved the right to take any steps—including examination of persons and search of property—to quell hostile agitators.

Council Will Consider.
The head of the international settlement police accepted the memorandum containing Japan's demands, without committing himself. He explained it was necessary to pass it along to the council.

As soon as the council took official cognizance of it, informed quarters understood, the demands would be presented to the consular body for action. It was expected they would be transmitted to Washington and other capitals.

The Shanghai Municipal Council, which administers the foreign areas, is composed of Chinese and foreign members. Three Japanese staff officers called on Brigadier General John C. Beaumont, marine commander, and apologized for their troops' intrusion on the American defense sector. They explained that the officer commanding the Japanese detachment was new to Shanghai and unfamiliar with the defense boundaries.

Tells of Threats

Rudy Kling Dies, Victim of Air Crash At Miami Carnival

Miami, Fla., Dec. 4 (AP)—Two fire-blackened patches of debris formed mute epitaphs today for two of the country's most daring air race pilots as Miami's annual air show entered its second day.

The deaths late yesterday of Rudy Kling, Leontine, Ill., and Frank Haines, Detroit, in accidents singular in the annals of American airplane racing, actuated a move to obtain withdrawal of a third pilot from remaining in competition here.

Of the three crack fliers entered, only S. J. Wittman, of Oshkosh, Wis., remained, and the contest committee planned to ask the closure of his name from the list of competitors.

Only stock model airplanes, 75 to 100 miles an hour slower than the special racing ships of Wittman, Kling and Haines, would remain to fly for the prize money and trophies offered by the show, the All-American Air Maneuvers.

Wittman won the race in which his brother fliers were killed. His average speed was 243.84 miles an hour and his closest stock model competitor had an average of 159.93.

Cause A Mystery.
What killed Haines and Kling, the latter rated as air race pilot No. 1 by virtue of his money earnings at the national air races in Cleveland last September, probably will remain a mystery.

Versions varied, but it was agreed that both pilots struck the ground at tremendous speed within seconds of each other at the first, on at the north end of a tight, triangular, five-mile course.

Kling apparently died in first and Haines, successfully rounding the turn where the Illinois man had just met death, plummeted to destruction 150 yards farther on. Neither man appeared to have more than 100 feet of altitude at the time.

Rail birds surmised that Kling lost flying speed on the turn and that Haines' machine, caught in Kling's turbulent propeller wash, had wrenched itself from the control of its owner.

The wreckage of the two little ships was burned later by field attendants.

Today's program was devoted to further closed-course events, augmented by stunt flying, acrobatics and precision work by navy planes.

Would Change Deer Dates.
Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—To aid in the propagation of deer, the New York Conservation Council considered today a resolution calling for a change in deer hunting dates.

The resolution urged changing the open season from October 1 to November 1 or 15, "because the present dates conflict with the mating season in which hundreds of bucks are killed before they mate."

Karl T. Frederick of New York city was re-elected president.

No Montague Invitation.
San Francisco, Dec. 4 (AP)—John Montague, whose golfing reputation was deflated recently by Babe Ruth, won't be invited to the National Match Play Open Championship here February 9.

Frank Nibley of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring the event, said "Montague won't be excluded. He simply won't be invited. Montague might be a great gallery attraction, but certain parties are not enthusiastic over him being issued a special bid."

Released in $500 Bail.
Sigmund Curesky, 51, of Danbury, Conn., was released from jail under $500 cash bail. Curesky was extradited from Connecticut recently on a warrant charging failure to support his family. He provided cash bail and an agreement was reached whereby he is to contribute toward the support of his family pending final determination of the charge. His family resides at Walkkill.

11 Mail Bags, Looted in New York, Found in River; $50,000 Reported Stolen

Diner "Stick-up" Nets Bandit $13.55 Makes a Getaway

A young man walked into the By-pass Diner on East Chester street, at Lincoln street, about 3 o'clock Friday evening. "This is a stickup," he said, addressing Mrs. Henry Van Wezenmaul, wife of the proprietor, who was alone in the diner at the time. "Shell out whatever cash you have in the cash register," added the man as he produced and aimed a revolver at her.

Mrs. Van Wezenmaul opened the cash register and handed the bandit $13.55, and he stuffed the money in his pocket and backed out of the door. She followed close at his heels and began screaming. The screams were heard by Charles Rabble, who conducts the gas station adjoining the diner. "What's the trouble," he shouted, as he ran toward her. "We have been robbed," she replied.

"Who did it?" asked Rabble as he flew toward the diner.

"There he goes now," she said pointing at the figure of a man walking down the road.

Darts For Woods.
The bandit board her and darted across the yard and toward the hill in the back which is covered with thick woods.

At this time several men had assembled at the scene and Mr. Van Wezenmaul, Rabble and others set off in pursuit of the bandit while some one telephoned police headquarters and a radio car was hastened to the spot.

The men thoroughly thrashed the woods but the bandit had made his escape. Not a trace of him could be found. The headlights of automobiles were flashed on the woods and the men who gave chase to the bandit were armed with flashlights.

Mrs. Van Wezenmaul described the bandit as apparently an American about 20 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighing about 150 pounds. He had a pointed face and wore a gray cap, tan sack coat and gray checkered sweater. She said she had never seen the bandit before.

The police believe that the holdup was the work of a stranger as they do not believe that a local youth would have the nerve to walk into the diner without wearing a mask or making some attempt to disguise himself. The stranger made no such attempt and after pocketing the money handed him walked out of the place and did not attempt to run until he heard Mrs. Van Wezenmaul scream and saw the men from the gas station running toward him.

Joins in Search.
Mr. Van Wezenmaul, who left the diner for a brief time, returned about two minutes after the holdup, and joined in the pursuit of the bandit.

There seems to be some question as to whether the bandit fled through the woods or ran around one of the houses on East Chester street and then back onto the highway and walked away.

Recently the Rabble gas station was burglarized, and the thief made good his escape. Mr. Van Wezenmaul said today that the man who robbed the gas station was short and chunky and did not resemble the bandit who had held up his wife at the point of a gun.

Search for the bandit continued for several hours without success. All of the roads leading into the woods were covered while searchers spread out through the woods trying to corner the bandit, but with no success. In fact the last seen of the bandit was when he cut across the road back of one of the houses and ran toward the hills in the rear of the gas station.

Within the last two weeks there has been an epidemic of minor burglaries in the city when gas stations, taverns and grocery stores have been broken into.

Babies Die of Strange Malady in Chicago
Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—Physicians and scientists waged a concerted fight today against a strange disease that has caused the death of 10 babies and imperiled the lives of eight others during the last 11 days.

All of the tiny victims were in the infants' ward of St. Elizabeth's Hospital. The disease, which killed most of the babies within 24 hours, was characterized by violent inflammation of the small intestines and was diagnosed as enteritis, or acute epidemic diarrhoea.

The outbreak, confined to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, began November 23. Four babies died before the symptoms were fully recognized. The hospital immediately declined new obstetrical cases and isolated the other infants, but six succumbed and eight others were stricken. All of the latter were in serious condition.

The victims ranged in age from nine days to 24 days. Seven of them were girls.

Healthy Appetites In Ulster County

New York, Dec. 3 (Special)—Ulster county residents have better-than-normal appetites. This is evidenced by the fact that more money is spent each year for food in cities in the county. In proportion to population, than in the average American city. The figures are contained in a study of sales by food stores, just prepared for "Printers' Ink Monthly."

The food sales in Ulster county, continued to purchases in cities of 2,500 population or more, totaled $5,251,000 over a period of a year, or $148 for every urban resident. For the country at large, this per capita figure is approximately $100.

The data for New York as a whole shows that 16,521,352 urban dwellers purchased a total of $1,265,721,000 from food stores, representing $120 per capita. (Chain stores in the state accounted for 45.0 per cent of these sales.)

The typical farm family, the survey shows, buys $38 worth of food stuffs per capita per year. In addition, it is estimated, it produces its own table supplies to the extent of at least $50 per capita.

Will Quiz Killer On Body Found At Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—Authorities moved today to question Lester Brockelhurst, convicted "crime tourist," about an unidentified body of a man found near here early this week.

Under-Sheriff Hiram C. Carroll, Asst. District Attorney Ely Gellert had written authorities in Arkansas, where Brockelhurst is awaiting execution for murder, asking them to question him about the body.

"As Brockelhurst was known to carry his victims long distances, we are working on the theory that the body recently discovered might possibly have been one of them," Carroll said.

The under-sheriff said Gellert also had written authorities at Rockford, Ill., asking them to question Bernice Felton, arrested with Brockelhurst at Dover Plains, N. Y., several months ago, about the body.

State's Attorney Robert E. Nash of Rockford said the girl denied she and Brockelhurst were involved in any murder at Poughkeepsie, prior to their arrest last May 13.

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—The theft of 11 bags of mail from an United States mail truck Thursday night was disclosed by post office inspectors today after five of the looted sacks had been fished out of the East river.

J. J. Doran, inspector in charge, estimated the value of the missing mail at between $40,000 and $50,000, of which only about $10,000 would be negotiable.

The loot included a shipment of $7,000 in currency consigned by the Federal Reserve Bank in Philadelphia to the Mount Jewett National Bank of Mount Jewett, Pa., and an "item of jewelry" valued at $400, ownership undisclosed.

Inspector Doran said he was frankly puzzled as to how the theft was carried out. The mail truck, manned by a

Further Reduction In TB Reported

Albany, Dec. 4.—A further reduction in the tuberculosis death rate in upstate New York during the first 10 months of this year indicates that this decrease is a reflection of tuberculosis case finding and hospital programs throughout the state, according to Dr. Robert E. Plunkett, general superintendent of tuberculosis hospitals of the State Department of Health.

"In 1935 the resident death rate in tuberculosis was 43.8 per 100,000, in 1936 it was 43.1, and for the first 10 months of this year 42.7," he said. "It is very likely that a further reduction may be experienced from this 10-month rate when final figures for the full year become available."

"Unfortunately, this continued decline is not being experienced in all sections of the country. Many states and several large cities have reported increases in tuberculosis death rates. This increase in the prevalence of the disease in other sections of the country should be looked upon as a warning of what may happen in upstate New York unless still more effective and vigorous methods of case finding and control are adopted in every section of the State."

Shokan, Dec. 3.—John L. Hughes and family of Kingston called on friends in Shokan recently.

Jay Smith, of Port Chester, was in the village on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Myers left Shokan, Monday afternoon for Florida where they will spend the winter months. Other Shokan residents wintering in Florida are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Spencer and son, Kenneth, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Glaccone. The Spencers are staying at Coronado Beach, while Mr. and Mrs. Glaccone have taken a house in Daytona Beach.

Grant Every, Back Brook farmer, on Saturday took a big truckload of apples to the elder mill. Mr. Every is cleaning up his Northwestern Greenings, which variety was largely planted on this big mountain farm.

Homer Markle, Jr., has rigged up an aerial at the district No. 3 schoolhouse and a radio is now available for educational purposes at the school.

A brush fire on the Krekeler property last week burned over a considerable area of young woods before being extinguished. There being few hunters in the woods these days, it is thought that the fire was started by laurel pickers. The site of the fire was but a few yards distant from the Krekeler's fine grove of large hemlocks where, more than 20 years ago, a blaze originating in a lantern used by bee hunters burned all night and required the efforts of a number of men to bring it under control.

December 3, 1903, funeral services were held for William B. Davis, a farmer and butcher residing near the old village of Boiceville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryder, a Stoneham, Mass., couple who were recently married, were guests from Sunday to Wednesday at the Longyear House on the old state road.

The Reformed Sunday school Christmas entertainment on Christmas Eve again will be directed by Mrs. E. Clayton Burgher, who with her pupils of the Shokan school will also have a party in the schoolhouse at a date to be announced later.

Miss Carrie Brooks of Ashokan read a paper on "Pneumonia Control" at a meeting of the Shokan Home Bureau which took place Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Floyd Merrihew. Miss Brooks also answered questions on her subject as put by several of the ladies present. Members of the local bureau attending Tuesday's meeting were the following: Mrs. Edward Every, Mrs. Samuel Friedman, Mrs. Herman Weldner, Mrs. Alonzo Davis, Mrs. Justus North, Mrs. Earl North, Mrs. Fred Guinac, Mrs. George Siskler, Mrs. Floyd Merrihew, Miss Edna Longyear and Miss Carrie Brooks. Mrs. Jennie Kerr of West Hurley was present as a guest.

Dr. and Mrs. Hans Cohn motored to New York city and returned on Wednesday.

A few local boys and young men have put out traps in the woods along the mountain slope. Formerly, the late William Personous and others of the village picked up quite a bit of money each winter through their trap lines but the low prices for the common pelts during the past few years has deterred most trappers.

Held in Slaying.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP).—District Attorney Raymond A. Knowles said today he was questioning a Lockport man in connection with the holdup-slaying yesterday of Isidore Silbergeld, 31-year-old Niagara Falls liquor store dealer.

Knowles said the man, arrested on a charge of public intoxication last night in nearby Lockport, had been "definitely identified" by a witness as the bandit who fired two shots at Silbergeld when the latter surprised him in the act of holding up the store.

WALKKILL CROSSINGS ORDERED ELIMINATED

Albany, Dec. 4.—(Special).—Specifications for an estimate of cost in the amount of $101,000 in connection with the elimination of the Howells, Howells Center and Howells Lower crossings of the Erie Railroad Company in the town of Walkkill, Ulster county, have been approved by the public service commission.

The estimate of $101,000 does not include land and property damages and has been approved by the state department of public works which also approved the specifications that were found to be substantially in accordance with the orders of the public service commission directing the method of eliminating these three dangerous grade crossings.

The Erie Railroad submitted an estimate of $15,900 covering work to be done by the railroad company by direct employment of labor and purchase of materials in connection with the elimination of these crossings. The work covered by the estimate includes the installing and removing of temporary detour tracks, changes in the existing tracks, the erecting and painting of structural steel and the removing of the existing crossing facilities.

ing of the existing crossing facilities.

The commission determined that this work may properly be done by the railroad company without contract and the Erie Railroad was authorized to perform this work at actual cost. The amount which the company may expend in performing this part of the elimination work without contract was limited to the estimate of $15,900 which the company submitted for the work it proposes to do without contract.

The Howells crossing is located about 80 feet southwest of the Howells station. The Howells Center crossing is located about one-tenth of a mile northeast of Howells station. The Howells Lower crossing is located about one-fifth of a mile northeast of Howells station in the town of Walkkill.

Railroad operating efficiency has steadily increased since 1922 and even during the past four years, although these years constituted a period of depressed traffic and reduced revenues.

The indictment charges them with the maintenance of a 1,000-gallon still and possession of 16,500 gallons of mash on the farm. A separate count alleges conspiracy to violate the liquor laws and defraud the government of revenue.

The men will be arraigned shortly before Judge Knox in Federal Court.

Two Men In Nelda's Life

RECK was so good-looking, so friendly, so amusing, that it was a delight to be with him. Bill was tall, brown and unsmiling. He erected a barrier that said "You shall not pass."

Reck was dashing and wealthy, and made himself charming to Nelda. Bill was a blue-jeaned lettuce farmer, who clashed with Nelda whenever they met.

Reck laughed at Nelda's ambitions. Bill resented her, because she dared to dream.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Special Business Assembly

On Wednesday morning the civics, economic citizenship and economic students assembled in the high school auditorium to hear John Form, a member of the Kingston board of Social Security who was introduced by Mrs. Boyd, a faculty member. Throughout the talk, Mr. Form informed the scholars of the activities and usefulness of this act that was passed by Congress recently. Although, according to the speaker, the act will not cure all the ills of the present economic strife now existing in the nation, it will nevertheless help in all directions in some degree. As a member of the local board, Mr. Form advocated the Social Security act as it is a combination of nine laws molded into three specific groups. These groups, Mr. Form stated, are: 1—The Federal granting of funds toward old age and individuals hampered by loss of eyesight or some other physical setback; 2—States in which compensation laws are set up; 3—And finally to help by the insurance plan for old age. Continuing along in behalf of this new law Mr. Form testified that accidents and the employing of younger men in preference to the aged persons have instrumental parts in the economic insecurity of American labor. However, he did not altogether squelch the idea of having the younger generation taking the places of their elders as in some businesses the work is far too strenuous and speedy for men of 45 to 55 to compete. Concluding his brief but interesting and valuable oration, Mr. Form presented an invitation to all the students to visit the offices of the local Social Security board in order to get acquainted with the laws and regulations governing this act.

U. S. Navy Films Shown

In the regular "B" and "A" assemblies on Thursday and Friday respectively, Officer Simpson of the Recruiting Office at Poughkeepsie gave a series of motion pictures that depicted the early life of recruits in the Navy. The initial film, entitled, "Making Men of War," depicted the various qualifications required of a recruit before being accepted as a post-sea healthy body including good teeth and other important rigid requirements. After the testing comes the first peek at training on land and this continues for a specified duration of time after which the recruits are given a shore leave and then off on a sea cruise to receive actual practice on board ship. The second film, "The Grey Armada," focused on the later life on the ship for the former beginners and a special feature of this film was the showing of an actual "war game" with the Navy ships, planes and submarines competing. On Friday morning the program was changed somewhat when the Junior and Senior students were treated to the companion picture, "With the Yangtze Patrol," dealing with the United States Navy cruisers patrolling the Pirate infested waters in China in the process of protecting American lives and commerce. Despite the film being very short, it contained some very amusing and interesting points to which all who witnessed the film were pleased entirely.

Oswego State Speaker Due

According to Mr. Dunbar, the high school's vocational leader, a representative from Oswego State Normal would be available for all seniors this coming Tuesday in the auditorium in a special assembly. Mr. Dunbar also announced that subject cards would be filled out next Tuesday morning for next term and requested all the students who are a little bewildered on what subjects to pursue next term, to meet with him on Monday.

Report Card Period Ends

The second period of this term's report card expired yesterday afternoon and throughout the day all teachers emphasized that all work be made up before leaving the school in order to have a new high of pass marks for this period.

Schirick Holds Busy Court Term

defendant. The matter was submitted.

Uthoff's Troubles.

Another action growing out of matrimonial troubles was the matter of Ida Uthoff, by Morris Levine, against Solomon Uthoff, by John Bonomi, which arises out of a separation action now pending. The plaintiff asked for alimony some time ago and counsel fees. At the time she asked for $20 a week temporary alimony and $500 counsel fees. The court after hearing both parties granted $100 counsel fees and $7 a week temporary alimony pending trial of the separation action. This was on November 3, 1937, and the plaintiff now claims that payments had not been made and she seeks either to have the payments made or a receiver appointed to collect the income and operate the business. It was claimed that the income is from $1,500 to $2,400 a year from the Kerhonkson farm and that Mr. Uthoff is able to meet the payments under the court order.

Mr. Bonomi for the defendant stated that the income was from 13 cows which were not producing much milk at present and that the milk check each month was small and from that feed bills amounting in one month to $55 had to be paid. He argued that if a receiver is appointed to operate the business there will be no income for anyone. Judge Schirick reserved decision and took the papers.

Bessie Myers' Suit

Another application for alimony and counsel fees came up in the matter of Bessie Myers against Glenford Myers. Saugerties, Chris J. Flanagan of Flanagan & Kaercher, appeared for plaintiff and Hon. George F. Kaufman for the defendant.

Mr. Flanagan said family difficulties had been in vogue for some time and one of the "favorite past-times of the defendant was to blacken her eyes" and Mr. Flanagan said he could produce affidavits from persons to the truthfulness of these assaults which were alleged.

He said a daughter as well as eight or ten neighbors could testify to having seen her "wear these adornments". Dr. Gifford, who had treated her, Mr. Flanagan said, could testify to the condition. He said the defendant had called her vile and indecent names in the presence of the children and that he had threatened her.

$30 Per Week

It was claimed he earned $30 a week and owned securities and also had a small bank account, as well as owning one-half of a double house in Saugerties. His salary at present it was alleged was $21.

The court was informed that the half house was bought for $2750 and at present it is occupied by the wife. On August 30 last he left the home and since he had paid $5 a week toward the support of his daughter and also was paying the way of a son at Syracuse University. The plaintiff claimed that this did not amount to much since the boy was at school under a scholarship.

Argues for Defendant

For the defendant Mr. Kaufman argued that granting alimony and a large counsel fee would be a gross injustice. He said he knew the situation and the action never should have been commenced. He said that in all of Saugerties he did not believe there was another man who had tried more faithfully to provide for his family. He was trying to educate the family and was paying toward their support and also bought clothing. All the defendant got was $4 a day when he worked.

"She Won't Stay Home"

"The whole trouble is that she won't stay home," said Judge Kaufman. She was out afternoons and evenings and failed to consider her family. The defendant had urged her to stay at home for the sake of the family. It was not denied that the defendant had struck her, but counsel said this was a provoked assault.

Counsel said he was willing to set the case down for next week and try it and he asked that the matter of alimony and counsel fees be held in abeyance. Judge Kaufman asked the court not to penalize the man and make it necessary to take the boy out of college. The action pending is for a separation.

At this point Justice Schirick asked both attorneys to step in chambers for a moment and took a short recess. After the recess the matter was not further discussed.

Weekly Alimony Asked

Flossie Osterhout represented by H. Westlake Coons, sought $5 a week alimony payments or a contempt order from the court against her husband, Henry Osterhout. Joseph Forman appeared for the defendant.

The action commenced a year ago is for annulment. Plaintiff claimed her husband was employed and earning good wages, while he contended that he was employed a part of the time cleaning up scrub along the electric light lines and in two weeks had made but $22.75 and was unable to meet the payments.

No Good in Jail

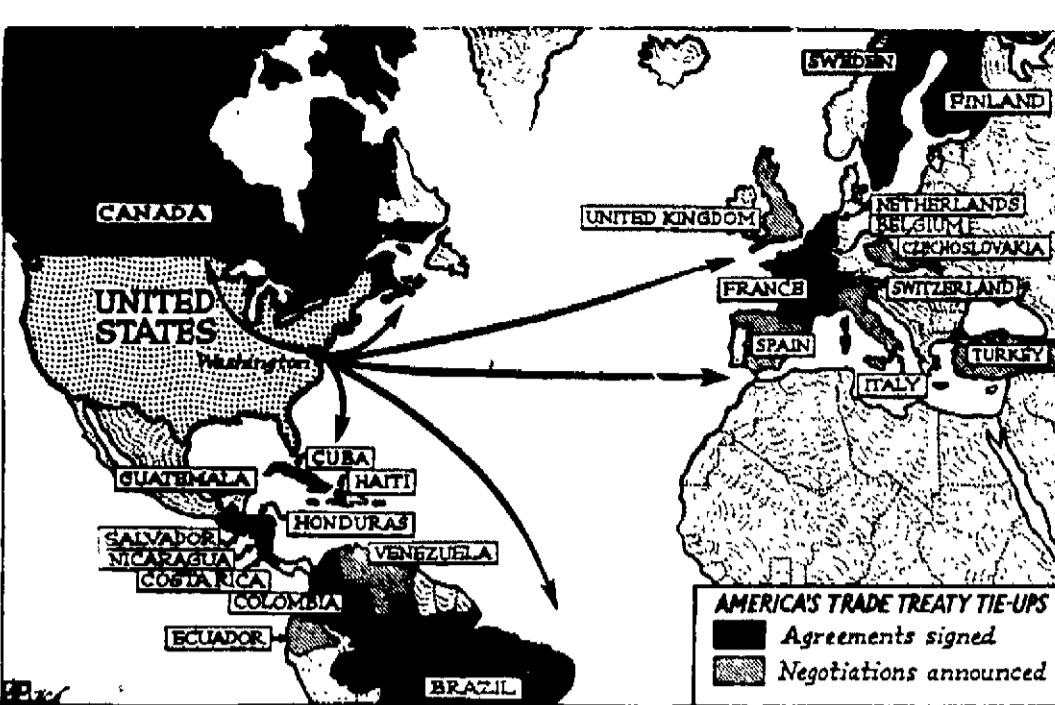

Mr. Forman said that if placed in jail he certainly could not contribute toward his wife's support. The defendant claimed to have paid over $100 to his wife over a period of a year. The defendant alleges he was in need of medical care and had been treated by a physician. Mr. Forman asked time to get an affidavit from the doctor.

Mr. Coons said he had been told by defendant that he had money in the bank and could pay but he did not want to.

Decision was reserved pending submission of affidavits.

U. S. Spreads Net For World Trade

By the AP Feature Service

The State Department's announcement that the United Kingdom (England, Wales and Scotland) soon will begin dicker-ing for a reciprocal trade agreement represents the sledge-hammer blow in Secretary Cordell Hull's effort to break what he sees as the shackles on world trade.

Sixteen such agreements have been signed, and negotiations for eight others (counting one re-tailoring of existing agreements) are pending. But in U. S. exports involved, the prospective agreement with Britain tops them all. As America's best foreign customer, the United Kingdom took 18 per cent ($440,122,000) of all U. S. exports last year. In return, Britain ranks second only to Canada as a source of U. S. imports.

First agreement in Secretary Hull's program to stimulate international business—particularly U. S. foreign trade—by swapping trade privileges with other countries was signed with Cuba in 1934. Last is that with El Salvador, signed last February. Of the eight negotiations pending, those with Spain and Italy are at present inactive. One is to revise an existing agreement with Canada.

Y. W. Friendship Luncheon Dec. 7

The local Y. W. C. A. will hold another "friendship luncheon" at the association on Tuesday, at 12:30 p. m. with Miss Ruth Linn Fraser of Newburgh as guest speaker. These luncheons have been held on several occasions during the last two years at the association and have proved to be most successful both socially and because of the delightful programs that have been presented.

Miss Fraser is the newly appointed general secretary of the Newburgh Y. W. C. A. and previously spent five years as a secretary in China, and her experience and impressions about that interesting country will be the theme of her talk.

The affair is in charge of the hospitality committee, which includes Mrs. Myron Teller, Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. John Matthews and Mrs. James H. Batts.

All members and friends of the Y. W. C. A. are most welcome and reservations should be telephoned to the "Y" office by Monday noon. Following the luncheon, the guests will be invited to visit the new club and recreation rooms and to view the other improvements that have recently been completed.

Minstrel Show at Comforter Hall

The annual minstrel show sponsored by the Reformed Church of the Comforter Men's Club will be presented this year on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, December 8 and 9, beginning at 8:15 o'clock in the church hall on Wynkoop Place.

The theme of the show will be the sea, and many of the songs will concern the various phases of "life on the bounding main." Attractive scenery has been constructed under the direction of Ray Nickerson, while the entire performance is again the creation of Frank Elmendorf.

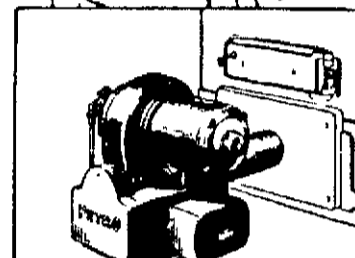

From the opening chorus, a rousing song of the sea, to the last strains of "Sailing, Sailing," the program has been arranged to give the audience the best in entertainment.

Don't forget that all but 5 per cent of Christmas Seal funds is spent to control tuberculosis in the state in which the seals are purchased. Have you bought your share of health protection for your Clister county?

When we get the "ever normal granary," how about an ever normal cupboard?

Oil heat at surprisingly low cost

wherever this "skinflint" burner is installed

That's what home owners say about the Model P Petro & Nokol Oil Burner. For no other burner has "Tubular Atomization" that produces lazy, quiet, more efficient soft flame combustion, resulting in greater heat release in the burning of the fuel.

Built for small home heating plants, this Petro & Nokol knows just how to squeeze every drop of fuel oil heat-dry. It's a "chiseler" that trims fuel oil bills.

See it. Priced today at bedrock, even though costs are rising. Install now, start paying next fall.

SHALL WE BUILD HOMES?

It is a strange and dangerous situation when people in the building trades can't afford to live in the houses they build. This has been the case in America for many years. It is the most surprising phase of an economic jam
that also keeps other Americans,
between the extremes of poverty
and riches, from having decent homes. With the best builders and workers in the world, in the most wealthy country, with the greatest supply of materials, most of us can't afford good homes.
They cost too much, for three reasons: materials are too expensive,
labor is too expensive, financing is too expensive. In several countries with only a fraction of our wealth and industrial ability,
these things are done better.

The strategic time seems to have arrived to do something about this problem. We need a big industrial push of some kind
to lift us out of the business
slump, and home construction
seems to offer the most hope.
The financing can probably be arranged more cheaply, by cooperation of bankers and government. It may be harder to hold down the prices of materials, as building volume grows. They might soar again and kill a promising building revival, as they did last summer. But with intelligent self-interest and control
in the building industry, that problem might be solved.
The hardest problem is to persuade labor to accept a lower wage, in consideration of steadier work and perhaps a guaranteed yearly minimum income larger than they have now. Their own welfare should move them to give open-minded consideration
to that plan.

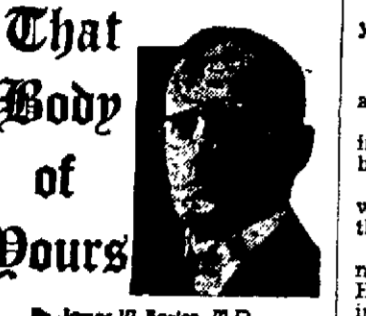

INVULNERABLE JAPAN

Premier Mussolini's newspaper,
"The Italian People," warns the United States not to attempt any strong action against Japan, because "Japan is invulnerable".
Uncle Sam, operating rather can-tly in the present delicate Asiatic business, probably hasn't any intention of trying "strong action".
But he that as it may, is Japan really "invulnerable"? If it were,
Tokyo statesmen and their friends
would hardly be putting out so many "feelers" of foreign sentiment and so many hints that Japan would like to make peace
while she's winning.
It looks from here as if the Japanese imperialists have bitten off, in China, more than they intended at this time, and more than they can swallow. They seem to have been encouraged thereto by Chinese strategy, which is credited with a deliberate plan
to lure the invading armies southward and inland. That has divided the Japanese forces, stretched their lines thin and made it harder and more costly to hold what they are gaining. China's final recourse is doubtless guerrilla warfare over an irregular front
measuring thousands of miles.
All of which suggests possible
bankruptcy for Japan, even in victory.
Meanwhile "the bear that walks
like a man" glares over the Mongolian border and seems to be getting ready to avenge the humiliation of 1904. Japan bulks big now, but not big enough to fight China and Russia together. And if Russia attacks then this presented conquest in China may crumble. Japan just now talks big,
and keeps on grabbing territory;
but we may yet see her begging
for some friend to help her let loose.

ITALY'S FUZZY-WUZZY

The "great delusion" of profitable colonies continues to get a black eye from Ethiopian news.
So far, at least, the only benefit

that country brings to Italy is that it serves as a training place for Italian troops. And, of course, as a theme for Mussolini's oratory.
Having annexed all those black men, with their verminous and fever-infested land, he can talk about the "Italian Empire".
But that proud title loses its glamor when hearers know the facts. And the kind of bush fighting required to keep those pernicious Ethiopian citizens out of the Italian soldiers' hair requires an expensive standing army and a continuous campaign, of a sort that provides little training for modern warfare against civilized enemies.
The only crop in Ethiopia is rebellion. And the rebels there-seem to be spiritual brothers of Kipling's "Fuzzy-Wuzzy", the "poor, benighted 'nathen, but a first-rate fighter" man, who was keeping British Tommies busy in the Sudan a generation ago.
Whenever it isn't raining in Ethiopia, and also when it is, the terrain is crawling with pesky natives. They sneak into the settlements, they take pot-shots at careless soldiers, they even attack
forts and fortified towns. Mussolini has had to send more troops and scores of bombing planes just recently, to protect the railroad from Djibouti to the capital. The "white man's burden" is heavy.

OBSERVING THE PATIENT

One of my patients brought a friend to my office with a shoulder injury caused during a street
quarrel. I took him to a nearby X-ray specialist who first used the fluoroscope which enabled him to see the condition of the bones and
then said,
"You were in the Air Force,
you were shot down in July, 19—
from a height of 2000 feet, you were sent to ——— Hospital,
and remained there till September, when you went to London and Dr. Arbutnot Lane operated on you at ——— Hospital."
The patient looked at me and said, "Who is this man. That's all true but how does he know it? I never saw him before."
The X-ray specialist remarked,
"It's all very simple, I could tell
the date and the probable height
from which he fell by the condition of the bones. There is only one man in the world who does
that particular operation—Sir Arbutnot Lane—and I happened to know that he was away off on the Eastern front at the time the injury occurred and did not get back to London till the Autumn."
As he recounted this I admitted that when he was telling it to the patient I was as much amazed as was the patient.
It is this observing of the patient that counts for so much in trying to locate the cause of the patient's symptoms; the expression on his face, the way he walks
or sits down, the shape of his body, all tell the observant eye of the physician something which helps him in making his diagnosis
—searching for the cause of the trouble.
Thus Dr. H. A. Hare, in his book "Diagnosis of Disease", in speaking of observing the patient,
says:
"The thin man, with a peaked
face and provided with a warm
overcoat, is probably suffering
with a lung or a throat disorder;
while the heavily-built, calm, or plegmatic individual, with a large head and a well-filled paunch, is much more apt to suffer from stomach, intestine, or gall bladder inflammation."
This doesn't mean that all thin individuals will have throat or lung trouble and the heavy individuals will have stomach, intestine, or gall bladder trouble, but their particular build gives them a "tendency" to these particular
ailments.

Chapter 34
Death Takes Honey

AFTER Nina had been there a few minutes, her mother suddenly looked at her. She just raised her lids, as though she hadn't been sleeping at all, and said: "Hello—baby, . . . quite wide awake."
"Darling . . . hello, there."
Nina bent over and kissed her hand.
"Nina . . . Honey looked around the darkened room without moving her head. Nothing about her moved, only her lips and her eyes.
Her arms, on the coverlet, might have been marble arms placed there . . . The rounded mound of her body, a dummy. "Nina I'm a little afraid. Am I—going?"
"Going?" Nina giggled, softly.
"You mean—dying? Listen, pet,
don't let on I told you, but all this is just a show. Dr. Fellows said,
'If we don't make your mother
think she's frightfully ill, she'll never behave the way we want her to . . . You're not in the least danger—really—but you'll only have another one of those hide-ously painful cramps if you don't stay quiet. You don't want that,
do you?"
Honey whispered: "Hell—no,"
and her wide blue eyes twinkled
for a minute. Nina thought that they looked unusually dark, and then she saw that the irises were quite enlarged.
"Be good, Honey lamb, and you'll be out in a couple of weeks."
Honey didn't answer.
Then: "Richard? . . . Do I look
all right for him, baby?"
"Sweet, just pale enough to be interesting. You don't want to look buxom in bed, do you?"
Honey murmured: "I don't want to look—buxom, ever," and then she went to sleep again.
After a few more minutes, the nurse came back. She took Honey's pulse, and gave her an injection.
Nina whispered: "She talked a little."
The woman raised her eyebrows, and nodded, and wrote something down on her chart, and lifted another chair to the bed,
without making a sound.
Another long vigil. Sometimes you could hear a bell ringing—
faintly—down on the first floor.
Sometimes you could hear muffled footsteps in the hall outside, but for the most part there was nothing
but an awful stillness—with Honey the very stillness of all.

We've Separated

SHE died at six o'clock. The attack had been too much of a strain.
Richard was on one side of the bed, and Nina on the other.
Honey just opened her blue eyes—suddenly, as she had when Nina was alone with her, and smiled at each of them in turn.
The fingers of her two little plump, white hands uncurred, and she seemed to be trying to reach out to them.
They each took a hand.
"Richard . . . Nina," she whispered. "I think I'll go to sleep for a little while . . ."
Richard said: "Do, my darling." And Nina said: "A good idea—
lamb."
And then Dr. Fellows straightened up and took the stethoscope
from his ears.
"It's all over, dear children," he said, and put his arm around Nina's shoulders.
Aunt Carrie Van Alstyne and Cordelia and Carl came back to the 74th street house with Nina
and Richard, after they had left Honey's flower-banked grave in Woodlawn cemetery.
Cordelia said: "You'll be going back to the apartment tonight, won't you, Nina, dear?" And Carl said: "Like me to stay with you for a day or so, Richard?"
But Nina cut in.
"I'll be here, Carl. Cordelia . . .
all of you. David isn't sick in bed.
I only said that we've . . . we've separated. I didn't want to—upset anyone . . ."
"Nina . . ."
"Oh, my poor child . . ."
She didn't really care—didn't really listen to what they said.
In this house that was suddenly so lonely without Honey—it hurt her
so, that she might have been reading David's note again, for the first time.
David and Nina had separated,
and Honey was dead. There was nothing left in her life . . . absolutely nothing.
McDuff had sent round a special delivery letter the day before,
and Nina had called him and asked him to take care of Button
for a few more days. She would be back to get him, he said, and to see about storing her things
after the funeral.
The letter had been from David
but it was only a check for $200 and a word to the effect that he would get in touch with her,
presently. Not a word about Honey—although there had been articles in the papers about her death. Just the check and those three lines . . .
It had hurt, of course, but yes—

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK.—One of the most accessible and pleasant celebrities to interview is Eve Symington, although, personally, I have never yet had that attractive assignment.
The trouble has been that every time I have gone over to the Waldorf to see her I have been so carried away by her singing that, by time I am back to earth again,
she has retrieved her bonnet and gone home. I must arrange to have that bonnet conveniently mislaid
sometime.
For there is no getting away
from the fact that Miss Symington is tremendously admired by this town. She admits herself that she is lazy, and if this is true then life must become something of a cross at eight o'clock and again at midnight each evening in that vast room where Professor Leo Reissman's music and M. Ser's murals conspire to give her just the background needed for so fascinating a personality.

THOSE greedy audiences just won't let her stop singing. They bring her back and back again
until Professor Reissman and Miss Symington wonder what they can offer next. After all, there are just so many songs, you know.
She is slim and blonde and has a smile that causes hardened movie directors to break off conversation in mid-phrase. But she is no languorous female—rather,
she is vividly alive and is likely to startle interviewers (so I'm told) with such statements as "I've been married 13 years and I couldn't hide my age if I wanted
to—the children have been publicized so much." . . . Or, "My oldest boy was 12 in June. I'm the original nightclub mother. Didn't you know?" "Well," remarked Jean Karsavina in a magazine article, "it's nice to boast of big sons when you look like a de-bante of a few seasons back."
It's amusing to flaunt a gaudy sobriquet against a background of gracious living.

WHAT is it about her singing that plays such tricks with the imagination? I don't know,
although I have listened to her
any number of times. Perhaps it is the low throaty quality that enables her to reach down—way down—for those notes that rub elbows with low C. It might be that smile and those blue eyes and a manner of holding a long blue handkerchief with both hands as she sings.

Whatever it is, it's enough.

Waking Them Up

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"JELLY BEAR! Honey Bear!
Jupiter Bear! Blacky Bear!
Chubby Bear!" exclaimed Willy Nilly. "You can't sleep in the trailer all winter. I don't want to hurry you to your winter's rest
but if you're going to sleep this soundly you should really be in your comfortable cave. 'Maybe you could go to bed now and then get up earlier in the spring.'"

But the bears did not hear a word that Willy Nilly said.

"I'd better go and tell my other Puddle Muddlers that the bears
are safe but that they're so sound asleep it looks as though it would take time to awaken them."
He went outside the trailer and saw Christopher Columbus Crow
lying overhead.

"Christopher," he called, "go
and tell the other Puddle Muddlers not to look any further for the bears. They're in the trailer."
"I'll do that right away," cawed Christopher.

Soon he was back and one by one the other Puddle Muddlers returned. They peeped inside the trailer and saw the bears—all as sound asleep as ever.

"Wake up, Jelly Bear! Wake up, Honey Bear. Wake up Jupiter
and Blacky and Chubby!" called Willy Nilly.
"Just let us sleep for a minute
longer," murmured Jelly Bear.
"We're only taking little naps—
not really asleep—but they're so —beautiful—." His voice was off again in sleepy silence.
"Well," laughed Willy Nilly,
"you've chosen a fine place in which to sleep—one that is filled with food."
"Food," repeated Jelly Bear and opened an eye.

Protest Game Will Be Played Dec. 12

Passaic, N. J., Dec. 4 (AP)—The Paterson Panthers and the Newark Tornadoes will meet again to determine the championship of the American Professional Football Association's Southern Division, under the decision of a committee ruling on a protest by the Panthers.

Joseph Rosentover, league president, announced here last night the committee upheld the Panthers' claim of their 7-2 defeat by the Tornadoes November 21 should be declared "no contest" because an incomplete forward pass was erroneously penalized as a touchback.

The committee comprised Steve Owen, member of the rules committee of the National Professional Football League; Tom Thorp, football official; Dan Parker, New York Daily Mirror sports editor.

Rosentover suggested December 12 as a date for the playoff.

The tornadoes are scheduled to meet the White Plains (N.Y.) Bears, northern division champs, at Newark tomorrow.

A Plan to Help Semi-Pro Ball

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—A plan to return semi-pro baseball to former levels in 1938 will be presented by Honus Wagner, once Pittsburgh Pirate great and now commissioner of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress.

Wagner said one of the moves would be to select an all-American sandlot squad of 48 players from athletes under 18 years old in every state. Each will be awarded a certificate and a gold watch by the national association, Wagner said.

Town Quickly Faded Out

The French Revolution caused thousands to flee their native land. These refugees became a problem in "the New World," and as a part of a solution, a million acres of land were acquired in Susquehanna, Bradford and Sullivan counties, Pennsylvania, April, 1794. Thousands came to the new settlement and a model city was laid out and called Asylum. New inhabitants being added daily, a town of many thousands "slept" soon flourished. France later ordered all immigrants to return at once. An exit began, and in ten years the town was no more.

Colonials Win Benefit Game in Saugerties High Gym by 48-30

The Shackett-Brice memorial basketball game at Saugerties High School gymnasium Friday night drew a record crowd and earned out to be a 48-30 victory for Frank Morgenweck's Kingston Colonials with Carl Husta, Jimmy Brown and Tiny Hearn in lineups.

For the rest of the Colonials, Lou Glenn, Bob Cullum and Joe Schline contested against all talent that furnished the opposition in the game arranged to raise funds for a plaque to be placed on Cantine Field.

Warren Shackett and Charles Price, the two Saugerties athletes whose honor the memorial is erected, died during the last year after playing an important part in the sports history of Saugerties High School and the village at large.

As the crowd looked on last night, Carl Husta, veteran Colonial guard, cut loose to score 16 points. Jimmy Brown, Tiny Hearn and Lou Glenn contributed nice share of the winning points for Kingston. Perks and Hearn did the best backbreaking or the Saugerties combination, which used 10 men during the game.

"SLEEPY" GLENN HAS BEST STATE ELEVEN

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 4 (AP)—A 23-year-old part-time student of medicine, who shouldered the task of guiding West Virginia University's gridiron team back to national prominence, turned out a bowl team—the Sun Bowl—in his first season.

One of the youngest mentors in major college ranks, Marshall "Little Sleepy" Glenn took over the Mountaineer fortunes after teams coached by All-America Ira "Rat" Rodgers, Yale's Earl "Greasy" Neale and Charles "Trusty" Tallman had failed to bring back the "golden era" of Dr. Clarence Spears' famous outfits.

In announcing West Virginia's acceptance of an invitation to meet Texas Tech on New Year's day in El Paso, Tex., Chairman R. B. Homan, Jr., of the Sun Bowl committee, hailed the Mountaineers as "the outstanding state university team of the east."

JUDY KING'S HORSES CONTINUE TO WIN PRIZES

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—Holystown, a chestnut gelding from Mrs. L. A. Park's stable at Sewickley, Pa., won the ladies' hunter class which opened tonight's tenth horse show of the 1937 International Livestock Exposition.

Many afternoon winners were Chicago horses but Miss Judy King, Atlanta, Ga., continued winning, her Killdeer Magi and Dufferin Dare taking first in the tandem event.

The Anheuser-Busch, Inc., pair of draft horses from St. Louis took second in the tandem hitch event in which Nathan Goff's pair from Clarksburg, W. Va., was third.

MEEHAN REFUSES INDIAN FEATHERS

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 4 (AP)—Protesting fear of defeat, football coach Chick Meehan of Manhattan declined to pose in Indian headdress on his arrival here, but withdrew his objections at a dinner last night.

"Aw Chick, last year before the Texas A. & M. game you posed in a cowboy hat," a reporter recalled.

"Yeah, and we lost 13-6. No headgear," the coach replied.

Manhattan plays Tulsa U. here today.

Charles Irwin of Albion offered evidence that pheasants are farmers' friends. In the crop of a bird he shot he said he found the remains of 52 grasshoppers.

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—There was plenty of smoke and a lot of fire in the baseball trading business today as the shopping center, snatched from the minor league meeting in Milwaukee to the major league arena in Chicago.

Though the American League turned all the deals at Milwaukee, indications today were that the long awaited swap of Brooklyn's Van Mungo was all but ready for official announcement.

The best guess today was that the New York Giants or Chicago Cubs would get Mungo because those two clubs seemed to have what the undermanned Dodgers needed to rebuild their "junior hall."

The deal was opened up by Pitcher Al Smith to the St. Louis Cardinals and getting catcher Tom Padden, ex-Pittsburgh Pirate, from the Cards. Padden will go to the Jersey City farm.

The American League, apparently, was just beginning to trade. Manager Jimmy Dykes, of the White Sox, certainly must do some more shopping now because he has wound up with almost an entire lineup of right-handed hitters, one of the surest routes to second division in baseball. The Boston Red Sox, it is known, want to get a deal for Jimmy Foss.

Actually, the major league meetings open Monday. Both leagues will hold separate sessions on Monday and Tuesday and joint meetings on Wednesday.

Proposals to increase the player limit from 23 to 25, to make the ball less lively, and discussions of night baseball compose the principal business on the agenda.

LIFE ON EARTH IN 1½ MILLION FORMS

New York.—More than 1,500,000 different species of plants and animals exist throughout the world, according to a treatise written by Theodosius Dobzhansky, professor of genetics at the California Institute of Technology.

The total figure was described as a "conservative estimate" in his study entitled "Organic Diversity," published by the Columbia University Press. With numerous species reported from near and far places every year, the number is expected to soar at a rapid pace, believes Professor Dobzhansky.

At present there are 822,765 known species of animals, 133,000 species of flowering plants and upward of 100,000 species of lower plants.

Number Almost Endless.

Professor Dobzhansky termed the number of distinct kinds of species of organisms as "seemingly endless," pointing out that within a species—including the case of man—no uniformity prevails. He said the study of organic diversity had its roots in antiquity and that pursuit of its problems—"seemingly irresistible aesthetic appeal"—in a large measure paved the way for the science of biology.

He described the biological classification of organisms as simultaneously a man-made system of pigeonholes devised for the pragmatic purpose of recording observations in a convenient manner and an acknowledgment of the fact of organic discontinuity. Cats are used as an example to illustrate this point.

"Any two cats are individually distinguishable, and the same probably holds for any two lions. And yet no living individual has ever been seen about which there could be a doubt as to whether it belongs to the species-cluster of cats or to the species-cluster of lions. The two clusters are discrete because of the absence of intermediates, and therefore one may safely affirm that any cat is different from any lion and that cats as a group are distinct from lions as a group."

Names Not Individual.

"Any difficulty which may arise in defining the species Felis domestica (cats) and Felis leo (lions), respectively, is due not to the artificiality of these species themselves, but to the fact that in common as well as in scientific parlance the words 'cat' and 'lion' frequently refer neither to individual animals nor to all the existing individuals of these species, but to certain modal points toward which these species gravitate."

"The modal points are statistical abstractions having no existence apart from the mind of the observer. The species Felis domestica and Felis leo are evidently independent of any abstract modal points which we may contrive to make. No matter how great may be the difficulties encountered in finding the modal 'cats' and 'lions,' the discreteness of species as naturally existing units is not thereby impaired."

Favorite Food of Snakes Gets Federal Attention

Washington.—The first study of the food habits of snakes in more than twenty years has been made by the biological survey with specimens collected by civilian conservation corps enrollees in the George Washington National forest in Virginia.

The data collected from the study will be incorporated in the natural history of Virginia, to be published in 1940.

Specimens submitted by CCC enrollees include 260 snakes of fifteen different species. The snakes were kept in formaldehyde by the forest workers until the collection was complete.

The study, the first made since that of Prof. H. A. Surface of Pennsylvania in 1906, is expected to prove of inestimable value in determining food habits of the reptiles, especially as they affect the lesser wild life inhabitants of the Virginia forest.

Francis Uhler, associate biologist of the survey department, will seek additional specimens from the early and spring months when damage to nesting birds will be the greatest. Snakes submitted to the biological survey first are identified and then the contents of their stomachs are examined.

Cow Is Hoisted Out; Found Far From Well

Frederick, Okla.—An automobile service company here had its most novel experience—that of getting a cow out of a well. Man 'Too Old To Sell Varnish,' Keeps World In Christmas Holly Gig Harbor, Wash. (AP)—Holly for the Christmas windows of the world moves from this Puget Sound fishing village in boxes and box cars, the shipments representing fulfillment of an old man's dream.

Wherever the age-old custom of displaying lustrous, prickly holly leaves during the holidays is followed—in Patagonia, Honolulu, or New York—Big Harbor holly finds its place.

More than 4,000 pounds of it comes this year from the grove of P. H. Peyran—who dreamed his holly dream 22 years ago and sees it realized today. Before the World war, Peyran was a varnish salesman who already foresaw the day when he would be too old to sell varnish.

Spurred by a nurseryman's casual remarks he discovered holly was about to disappear from American homes. The wild holly growing mostly in Delaware marshes was nearly exhausted and the United States contained not a single commercial holly grove.

Business Developed

Peyran planted 600 self-pollinating French holly trees on the shores of Puget Sound as old-age insurance.

Two years later, he lost his job. Since that time, holly has supported him, the 600 trees multiplying until today he heads the largest commercial holly business in the country, with 1,000 producing and about 7,000 young trees, a "factory" making wreaths and preserved decorations, and an autumn payroll of about 25 persons. He figures his gross annual income from holly alone at $6,000. A dozen other northwesterners now make their livelihood from the industry.

Holly trees today are carefully selected from three of the 175 known varieties, planted 80 to the acre and tended carefully for 10 years before they produce a single leaf of commercial holly. At that age, a good tree produces 10 pounds annually and gradually increases its output.

Not Much Waste

The holly itself is pruned from the smallest branches, graded for the number of berries, the size, lustre and prickliness of leaves. Berried sprigs are used for decorations; berryless branches become wreaths, and loose leaves are wired together for boutonnières. The average price is about 50 cents a pound.

At 72, the man who was too old to sell varnish 20 years ago works 15 hours daily in the grove and factory and plans new expansions for next year.
